Forty students and their mother or sister attended the Legacy Breakfast on March 15. This was the first year the event was held, sponsored by the Alumnae Office. Next year, the breakfast will be held in January to accommodate the return of college-aged alumnae and will include mothers, sisters and aunts.

Class of 1987 Celebrates 25 Years & Honors Classmates

The Class of 1987 celebrated their 25th reunion at the Common Market in Quincy. They raised money for Fontbonne Academy in memory of three of their classmates who have passed away over the years. The class made a gift to Fontbonne Academy of more than $1,200 and honored deceased classmates Karen Devine, Jane Henry Hetherington, and Regina Sheridan Hobbs. The reunion was organized by Christine O'Shea Powers '87 and had a good turnout of about 40 alumnae.

Steppingstone Foundation Partnership

Kristin Arcangeli '97 and Katie McEvoy '01 of Steppingstone Foundation.

The Fontbonne Academy campus was filled with squeals of laughter and delight this summer as two alumnae helped to bring the Steppingstone Foundation to campus. Kristin Arcangeli '97 was instrumental in the partnership. Kristin, who has a Masters in Clinical Health, works to promote social-emotional support on many levels and has become involved in Steppingstone's College Success Academy (CSA). CSA is an extension of Steppingstone, whose primary mission is to develop and implement programs that prepare underserved students for educational opportunities that lead to college success. CSA provides support and services through high school, ensuring their students, or Scholars as they are called, are well prepared for college. Seventy-eight Steppingstone Scholars participated at Fontbonne Academy, sharpening their learning skills, and minimizing summer learning loss. Writing about the partnership, Kristin comments, "Fontbonne was perfect for us because it has so much outdoor space, plus the gym and the cafeteria, allowing Scholars to spread out and play. It had the added bonus of being right down the street from our other program at Milton Academy. We couldn't have dreamed a more perfect space to be our summer home!"
